We store your data for the purpose of processing and handling your fee and licence agreement. After the contract has been fully completed and following the expiry of statutory storage obligations, your data will be deleted. You can find more information on the handling of your personally identifiable data and on your rights at www.fachmedien.de/datenschutzerklaerung (in German).

With regard to the multimedia utilisation of all contributions, we would like to point out that it has always been the case that acceptance and publication in the print publication "WIRTSCHAFT UND WETTBEWERB" has also included the granting and utilisation of the print rights and the digital online and offline right to exclusive utilisation, unlimited in terms of time, space and content, in relation to all known manners of use. In particular, this also includes the right of duplication, dissemination, leasing and lending. The work may be recorded in digitalised or non-digitalised format, merged with other works and contributions in databases, combined and stored on all known storage media. Moreover, the work may be rendered usable in any desired form, also interactively, by electronic means, and may be duplicated and independently marketed or disseminated on any desired data, image or sound media, such as CD-ROM, CD and DVD. In particular, use is permitted in online services (e.g. telemedia and media services), Internet, radio, video, audio products in and from databases, telecommunication, mobile phone, broadband and data networks, as well as for electronic press reviews, e-paper and PDF files, irrespective of the technology used for transfer to existing mobile and stationary user devices. The publisher also has the right to edit the work for publication while ensuring the integrity of the work, and in particular to translate the work into other languages, to add sound to the work or to abridge the work as well as to extend licences to third parties with regard to the granted utilisation right, provided that this is in connection with the published title. The publisher is entitled to use the work for his own advertising purposes. As the originator of the work, you guarantee that the work does not violate any rights of third parties.

Unless otherwise agreed, this agreement applies to all publications by the author in "WIRTSCHAFT UND WETTBEWERB" in 2021.

You consent to any photo that you have provided in connection with your contribution to "WIRTSCHAFT UND WETTBEWERB" (print and online) being published. For this event, you declare that there are no rights of third parties to the photo that prevent publication.
